

The Campaign for Better Rail Decisions

Passenger rail projects and services – ranging from intercity routes to streetcars – are often stymied or delivered in sub-optimal operating environments due to poor ideas & understanding of options. Join us to elevate the level of knowledge, development and support for meaningful passenger rail projects in North America: @RAILMag on Twitter & www.railmagazine.org

International Examples

Electrification & Fares

Disincentivizing Driving

Ineffective Streetcars

Knowledge & Arguments

Informed, communicable positions

Freight Railroads

Vehicles & Infrastructure

Leverage the passion & audience of

Transit Advocates

Elected Officials

to overcome attitudinal and organizational barriers

Insufficient Frequency

Precision Railroading

Transit Agencies

Where projects are managed

Sunk Costs

Dedicated Lanes

Role of Labor

Cost Escalation