

COVID-19 Recovery Vendor List for Public Transportation

A joint publication of the American Public Transportation Association (APTA) and Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA)

July 27, 2022 – Update

Overview

The Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) public health emergency has significantly impacted public transportation operations throughout the Nation. As communities recover from COVID-19, transit agencies are implementing new and enhanced measures to ensure the safety of their employees and passengers and increase public confidence in transit, including enhanced cleaning and disinfection, personal protective equipment (PPE) and face coverings, and social distancing.

The American Public Transportation Association (APTA) and the Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA) are committed to helping the U.S. public transportation industry recover and become even stronger than before. The COVID-19 Vendor List for Transit includes information on vendors and products that transit agencies may use in their COVID-19 response and recovery efforts.

This Vendor List is provided to align with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), local, and state governmental recommendations and requirements for reducing the risks to passengers and employees related to COVID-19 and is not provided as an endorsement of a particular product or vendor by APTA or CTAA. Vendors may be removed from the list based on complaints or concerns raised by APTA and CTAA members.

Products are organized under the following categories:

- Barriers, Shields, and Protective Guards
- Chemical Disinfectants
- Contactless Payment Systems
- COVID-19 Testing Kits and Contact Tracing Technology
- Electronic Reporting Systems
- Face Coverings and Dispensers
- Face Shields
- Gloves and Dispensers
- Hand Sanitizer, Sanitizing Wipes, and Dispensers
- Infrared Cameras and Kiosks
- Signs, Stickers, and Floor Decals
- Thermometers
- Ultraviolet Light and Other Innovative Products

To Be Added to the COVID-19 Vendor List

If you are a vendor that would like to be added to this list, or if you are a State or transit agency with a recommendation, please send an email to Mr. Brian Alberts, APTA's Director of Safety (BAAlberts@apta.com) or Ms. Loreal Lance, CTAA's Membership and Business Development Director (lance@ctaa.org). Updates to this list will be posted monthly.

Barriers, Shields, and Protective Guards

In response to recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), transit agencies are using physical barriers, such as acrylic protection shields, polycarbonate protection guards, vinyl strip curtains, and other impermeable dividers or partitions, to enforce physical distance and protect employees who come into contact with passengers or other employees.

Sources

- Local hardware stores, construction companies and commercial glass and mirror shops may be able to source acrylic, polycarbonate and/or vinyl sheets in sufficient volume for the transit agency. The North American Retail Hardware Association maintains information on local resources.
- Maintenance teams at the transit agency may be able to fabricate barriers to enclose the operator's compartment on buses and to support separation in facilities and stations.
- Vendors can also custom cut or manufacture materials to support barrier installation.

Vendors that supply prefabricated shields and partitions for operator compartments:

- A-Z Bus Sales driver partitions
- ABC driver protection partitions and removable shields
- ArowGuard driver protection system
- Best Bus Sales polycarbonate bus driver barrier
- Bombardier Transportation \(contact company for more information\)

Chemical Disinfectants

The virus that causes COVID-19, SARS-CoV-2, can be killed with disinfectant products. The CDC recommends only using disinfectant products on List N of registrants compiled by the Environment Protection Agency (EPA).

Sources

- The American Chemistry Council's (ACC) has compiled a list of store-brand products associated with the EPA's List N to help the public identify suitable products for their needs.
- Supply companies already used by the transit agency, such as janitorial service, construction suppliers, etc. may have access to these chemical disinfectants.
- State epidemiologists and local public health agencies may provide advice and recommendations on products to use and sources for disinfectants for transit - specific circumstances and conditions.
- Local associations or other groups, such as a Chamber of Commerce, may pool several businesses' supply needs into a larger order.

Vendors that supply disinfectant products on the EPA's List N for commercial and industrial applications like public transportation:

- AeroClave Vital Oxide disinfectant
- Alpha Chemical disinfectant concentrates and sprays
- AramSCO disinfectant concentrates and sprays
- ByoPlanet Clean Republic disinfectant and sanitizer

- Trans/Air Whiff! chlorine dioxide mister
- Vectorfog fog machines for disinfectant purposes
- Victory Innovations cordless electrostatic backpack sprayer
- VitalOxide electrostatic sprayer

Vendors that supply additives to provide real-time color visualization to enforce best disinfection practices:

- Kinnos Highlight bleach additive

Additional Information

The CDC notes that if disinfectants on List N are in short supply, alternative disinfectants can be used (for example, 1/3 cup of bleach added to 1 gallon of water, or 70% alcohol solutions).

- EPA Disinfectant Use and COVID-19

Contactless Payment Systems

Transit agencies are innovating contactless payment options, with potential safety benefits including fewer physical touchpoints when making payments and less exposure to contaminated surfaces. This technology can reduce the amount of personal contact involved in travel through a simpler, cleaner, and quicker payments system. The CDC recommends that transit agencies "use devices that do not require the employee to handle customer credit, debit, or rechargeable ride cards and institute a cashless policy."

COVID-19 Testing Kits and Contact Tracing Technology

Transit agencies are setting up COVID-19 testing sites for their employees, often in partnership with urgent care facilities, diagnostic laboratories and non-profit medical groups. Transit agencies also are using wearable tracing technology to monitor social distancing and support contact tracing in the event an employee tests positive for COVID-19.

Electronic Reporting Systems

Transit agencies are expanding their use of electronic reporting systems that allow passengers and employees to report COVID-19 issues and concerns in real-time. Issues reported may include crowding on platforms and at bus stops, lack of adherence to face mask mandates, unsanitary conditions, or depleted supplies like hand sanitizer or masks.

Sources

- Internal information management systems or web-based communication or management systems can be modified to include COVID-19 issue reporting for employees.
- Customer service systems and transit agency websites can be modified to provide COVID-19 issue reporting features for customers.

Face Coverings and Dispensers

The CDC recommends that people wear a cloth face covering or face mask while in public spaces. Wearing a covering can reduce the chance of spreading the virus.

Sources

- Supply companies already used by the transit agency, such as janitorial service, construction suppliers, etc.
- Local janitorial, construction, uniform, or restaurant suppliers.
- Local associations or other groups, such as a Chamber of Commerce, may pool several businesses' supply needs into a larger order.
- Local restaurants, grocery stores, doctor's offices, or other essential businesses may be willing to order from their suppliers on a transit agency's behalf.

Hand Sanitizer, Sanitizing Wipes, and Dispensers

In response to CDC recommendations, transit agencies are placing alcohol-based hand sanitizers containing at least 60% alcohol on transit vehicles and in transit stations to promote hand hygiene in situations where passengers and employees do not have the opportunity to wash their hands with soap and water.

Sources

- Supply companies already used by the transit agency, such as janitorial service, construction suppliers, etc.
- Local associations or other groups, such as a Chamber of Commerce, may pool several businesses' supply needs into a larger order.
- Local restaurants, grocery stores, doctor's offices, or other essential businesses may be willing to order from their suppliers on a transit agency's behalf.
- U.S.-based distillers are now manufacturing hand sanitizer to support their local communities. Additional information is available here.

Infrared Cameras and Kiosks

Transit agencies are expanding their capabilities to monitor the health and safety of their employees and passengers. Thermal imaging cameras offer one available temperature and health screening method. These cameras identify elevated body temperature, which could be indicative of a fever (one of the symptoms of a viral infection).

While these are not medical devices and do not replace conventional medical testing, they can be used to give an early indication when used properly. Thermal cameras also can be integrated into kiosks which support administration of health screening questionnaires.

Signs, Stickers, and Floor Decals

The CDC recommends that people maintain at least six feet of separation. Physical separation, also known as physical distancing, reduces the risk of airborne transmission of the virus. Signs, stickers and decals help remind transit passengers and employees to maintain physical distance.

Thermometers

Given the scope and severity of the COVID-19 pandemic, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission – the agency tasked with enforcing the Americans with Disabilities Act – has stated that employee temperature checks are valid and appropriate. The CDC also recommends routine temperature checks as an important way to monitor employee health.

Ultraviolet Light and Other Innovative Products

Transit agencies are working with suppliers and researchers to advance sanitizing and disinfection solutions to stop the spread of COVID-19.

Products under development and testing include fixed and mobile ultraviolet light (UV) devices at a range of frequencies across the UV spectrum for air purification and surface sterilization; antimicrobial biostats that create a protective layer on surfaces and prevent microbes from growing;

electrostatic sprayers that positively charge a disinfecting solution, atomize it, and disperse it in tiny particles across a negatively-charged surface for greater coverage in less time; and air filters that actively capture and kill microbes.

CDC and EPA are reviewing the results of research conducted in the transit industry. Many innovative products, however, have not yet been officially approved or endorsed by CDC or EPA as effective against SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, though many of these products have laboratory results documenting their effectiveness. Some of these products also may have harmful effects that must be mitigated during application or use.

A transit agency considering innovative products should confirm all laboratory claims of effectiveness against SARS-CoV-2 with vendors, clarify instructions and safety requirements for use or application, and continue to monitor CDC and EPA recommendations.

Some companies claim that their UV products reduce or eliminate virus transmission via surfaces. Because these disinfection devices can be considered pesticide devices, their efficacy claims are not reviewed or verified by EPA. In the absence of third-party assessments, EPA is conducting research to understand which technologies reduce the amount of SARS-CoV-2 on surfaces. EPA's preliminary research did not demonstrate disinfection using UV-C products.
